The BANKING AND CURRENCY MUSEUM at Kadina South Australia was established by Mick Vort-Ronald 9.12.1988 and closed 19.12.2008, premises and collections sold. If you were one of the many thousands of people who visited it, this new book will bring back fond memories.
If you didn't visit during the 20 years it was open, this book will show you what you missed!

A collector's dream for over 20 years, collecting and displaying almost every type of numismatic and bank item from coins, banknotes, tokens, Roman coins, Egyptian antiquities, bank signs, equipment and machines, badges, uniforms, shipwreck coins, shredded banknotes, and 20 cabinets of gems, minerals, meteorites and fossils. How the museum evolved and expanded, where most of the displays came from, what they cost and what they sold for after the museum closed in 2008. You will be surprised to see how much was displayed. Multiple Regional Tourism Award winner and unique in Australia - possibly the world!

VORT-RONALD in ACR and CAB due end of March 2021.

To celebrate over 45 years of writing articles for the Australian Coin Review and the Australasian Coin and Banknote magazine, four new Vort-Ronald publications have been produced to provide a further 1,430 pages of articles by or about Mick Vort-Ronald in those magazines. These will complement the previous two editions published, now designated as Volumes 4 and 5. VERY FEW people would have all 57 years (625 issues) of these magazines, so this is a golden opportunity for researchers and collectors to catch up with what was written by Mick decades ago up to today, particularly about Australian banknotes.

Volume 1, 1975-1994.

Volume 2, 1995-2000.

Volume 3, 2001-2012.

Volume 4, 2012-2015.

The Michael P. Vort-Ronald autobiography

Rough diamond and man of note.

Second edition, August 2021. P146

Written in 2003 and continually edited, updated and enlarged for 19 years.
A life story in detail about childhood, family, schooling, love and marriages.
A controversial 28 years in the S.A. Police Force.

Banknote and mineral collector, author and/or publisher of 170 books.

Many friends acknowledged and illustrated.

Two trips to the U.K. tracing ancestors in Somerset and Cornwall.

Teacher at a Primary School reunion, "I remember you, you were a naughty boy"

Police Inspector, "His work has been so good for so long that I hesitate to record some aspects of his attitude to his work which will have to mellow. His tenacity suggests a machine rather than a person. His hobby of collecting rocks and minerals again suggests a degree of unsociability".

Harold Peake, "It is more than handy to have a walking, talking, live encyclopedia available a phone call away!!"

408 pages, 850 images. RRP $75, postage $18.

Part 2 of the Autobiography, 20 years in the Banking and Currency Museum.
312 pages. RRP $60, postage $18. See page 2.

Both books posted together, postage $22 for the two, total $155 for 720 pages.

AUTHOR: Michael P. (Mick) Vort-Ronald was born in Adelaide in 1943 and celebrated 80 years of age in 2023. As a teenager he collected minerals, stamps and coins, and was a Queen's Scout. At the age of 16 years and two weeks he joined the South Australian Police Force as a cadet and graduated in 1963. He was stationed at Adelaide, Whyalla, Angaston, Nuriootpa, Swan Reach, Port Pirie, Whyalla and Mannum - the last two towns as a sergeant for nine years. He is still a member of the Police Historical Society and the Retired Police Officers Association.

At the age of 18 years he joined the Adelaide Gem and Mineral Club and was made Life Member in 2012 for 50 years continuous membership and Honorary Life Member in 2022. He was president of the club 11 times and editor of its magazine "The Fossicker". He was president of Yorke Peninsula Gem and Mineral Club seventeen times, and the Mineralogical Society of South Australia ten times, and is currently an Honorary Life Member and its vice-president and newsletter editor. Most of his original gem and mineral collection was sold to help finance his first banknote reference book in 1979, but a new larger collection of gems, minerals, fossils and meteorites was displayed in his museum until it closed on 19.12.2008. He still collects, studies and photographs minerals.

As a specialist on Australian banknotes he wrote monthly for the Australian Coin Review from 1975 and became its final editor from 1999 to 2001. He then wrote monthly for the Australasian Coin & Banknote Magazine in Sydney until it ceased in November 2023 and then continued again for the ACR. His Australian Coin Review Index was published by the Numismatic Society of S.A. in 2002. From 1976 he has part-authored the banknote sections of Renniks Australian Coin and Banknote Guides. He has written and self-published over 170 reference books, mostly about all aspects of Australian banknotes, but also including extended family histories (9), bank branch histories (8), police station histories (5), cheques (6), moneyboxes, passbooks, minerals, medals, Angaston Cemetery (2), Gammon Ranges (scouting) and numerous illustrated banknote albums, a small book about China in the 1920s, Chinese Embers, written by his aunt Eva Dower, the wife of a French banker, and two books of poems for his wife Lyndelle, who died on 29 September 2023.

For his work on Australian banknotes he was elected a Fellow of the Numismatic Society of South Australia in 1985, later serving six terms as its president, and was awarded Hon. Life Fellow in 2021 for 20 years as treasurer and 25 years as newsletter editor (which he still is). As president of the Northern Yorke Peninsula Coin Club (later the Yorke Peninsula Collectables Club) from 1990 to 2009, he designed the last ten of its Cornish Festival medallions and was awarded Honorary Life Membership in 2009. He designed two medals for Encounter 2002 (Flinders and Baudin), and an Adelaide Treasury medallion. In 1993 he received the Tasmanian Numismatic Society A.J. Lockwood Award for his contribution to numismatics and in August 2009 received the Numismatic Association of Australia's Paul Simon Memorial Award and medal for his outstanding contribution to organised numismatics.

In 1988 he auctioned his Australian banknote collection, resigned from the South Australian Police Force after 28 years service and purchased a two-storey 1873 ex-bank building in Kadina where he operated Australia's only private Banking and Currency Museum 1988 – 2008, winning 10 regional tourism awards including Tourism Excellence, and Best Attraction five times. He "retired" on 19.12.2008 aged 65 years, "sold up" and moved to Willaston (Gawler S.A.) in 2009 to continue with his writing and publications, now averaging five to ten new books or editions each year. He also produces 12 and 4 newsletters annually for the Mineralogical Society and Numismatic Society respectively.

Other activities included treasurer of the Kadina National Trust and Farm Shed Museum for 13 years (receiving a State Honour Award in 2008) and secretary-treasurer of the Yorke Peninsula Tourism Association. He is a member of the International Banknote Society (Sydney) and Honorary Member of its Melbourne Chapter. His banknote photography was used in Peter Steele's "Collect Australian Banknotes", and the 1991 and 1992 Telecom Finance calendars, and a set of exclusive phone cards. In 2007 & 2008 he appeared in "Who's Who in South Australia" and in 2017 was elected to the Hall of Fame of the International Bank Note Society in the U.S.A.
